Guest Speakers

Kevin J. Adams is the founding and senior pastor of Granite Springs Church in greater Sacramento, California, and a program affiliate at the Calvin Institute of Christian Worship. Formerly the director of formation at the Newbigin House of Studies, San Francisco, he has taught at Calvin Theological Seminary, Western Theological Seminary, and William Jessup University.

Monika Grasley is the founding director of LifeLine CDC, a community development organization that is empowering under-resourced neighborhoods to thrive. She uses an Asset Based Community Development approach to engaging with neighbors, and she loves to look for what is strong in a neighborhood, not what is wrong.

Robert Guerrero has planted churches in Santo Domingo, Chicago and New York City. Robert was also co-founder of La Red del Camino for Integral Mission in Latin America, committed to training churches to live out the gospel holistically. He leads the Latino Initiative of City to City North America, helping catalyze Hispanic-led church planting networks in North America and the Spanish-speaking Caribbean.

Sam Huizenga currently serves as the Director of Interactive Learning Programs for Resonate Global Mission. Sam and husband Jon have planted three churches in Jacksonville, FL, Rockford, MI, and now in Cedar Springs, MI. They have four married children and six grandchildren. Sam brings a passion for learning with others to their planting experiences. She also enjoys biking and quilting.

Andy Littleton planted a church in Tucson, Arizona 2014, helped merge it with another small church in 2016, and still co-pastors at Mission Church to this day. He has launched several small businesses and currently owns a boutique retail store. These experiences have led him to a partnership with Resonate Global Mission and the launch of Infuse, a missional idea incubation program.

Will Plitt serves as the Executive Director for Christ Together, helping churches in over 100 cities discover a collective vision for the gospel saturation of their geographies. Before serving as the Executive Director for Christ Together, Will served as a church planter and pastor for over 20 years. Will and his wife live in Winston-Salem, NC along with their 3 grown children and 2 grandchildren.

Tim Sheridan is Church Planting Leader for Resonate Global Mission and professor of congregational theology at the Missional Training Center, Phoenix. He has served in pastoral ministry for over twenty years in both the United States and Canada and has been involved in church planting in both countries. He lives outside of Vancouver, British Columbia, with his wife Andrea. They have four children and one son-in-law.

Engaging People. Embracing Christ.
